

AIRCRAFT CRASHES IN CENTRAL SOUTHERN ENGLAND 1914 –T. N. Hancock

As a retired librarian I have long been aware that all aspects of local history should be recorded for the benefit of future generations and this is my attempt to cover just one of those aspects; it will surprize many people to know that, since powered flight began, a minimum of some 3,900 aircraft have crashed and been ‘written-off’ (eg, did not fly again), in the traditional counties of Bedfordshire, Berkshire, Buckinghamshire, Hertfordshire, Middlesex, Oxfordshire and the modern Greater London north of the River Thames. This list attempts to give the bare details of these - it should be emphasised that these are the crashes that resulted in the aircraft being destroyed, NOT those, of which there were many, which crash-landed, were salvaged by 50 & 90 Maintenance Units at Cowley and 71 MU at Slough, repaired at civilian repair factories, such as those in the area at Kidlington, Elstree, Watford, Hanworth, Broxbourne, Heston, Norbury, High Wycombe, Old Warden and Ruislip, and then flew again. I use the words ‘this list attempts to give’ advisedly as the recording of these crashes was down, quite frequently, to the whim of an RAF clerk (and even worse, USAAF clerks!) who may have made mistakes in locations and other details. The airfields in the traditional counties covered are – (dates are those between which flying took place)

Bedfordshire – Barton-in-the-Clay (1940-45 ATA), Bedford RAE see Thurleigh, Cardington (1917-32 Shorts, 32-60s RAF, 79-90s Airship Ind, 2010-present Airlander.), Cranfield (1937-59 RAF, 46-present College/University and civil), Dunstable (1930s to present gliding site), Henlow (1918- RFC, 1918-present RAF), Luton (1938-39 airport, 39-45 RAF, ATA and Percival, 45-present Percival, Hunting and airport), Old Warden (1932 – present civil), Podington (1942-46 USAAF), Tempsford (1941-47 RAF), Thurleigh (1942 RAF, 42-45 USAAF, 54-94 RAE), Twinwood Farm (1941-45 RAF).;

London – Chingford (1915-19 RNAS/RAF), Cricklewood (1916-19 Beatty Aviation, 1917-29 HP and civil) 9, Fairlop (1916-1919 RFC/RAF 1940-45 RAF), Hainault Farm (RFC/RAF 1917-19), London City (1980s-present civil), Suttons Farm (RFC/RAF 1917-19),

Oxfordshire – Akeman Street (1940-45 RAF), Barford St John (1941-46 RAF), Barton Abbey (1941-45 RAF), Benson (1939-present RAF), Bicester (1917-20 RFC/RAF, 1928-76 RAF), Brize Norton (1937-51 RAF, 51-64 USAF, 64-present RAF), Broadwell (1944-47 RAF), Chalgrove (1943-45 USAAF, 45-46 RAF, Martin-Baker 46-present), Chipping Norton (1940-46 RAF), Cowley (1939-45 Morris), Culham (1944-53 FAA), Edgehill (1941-45 RAF and Gloster, post WW2 civil), Enstone (1942-47 RAF, civil post-war), Kelmscott (1942-48 RAF), Kiddington (1940-45 RAF), Kidlington (1938-39 civil and RAF, 39-45 RAF, 45-present civil and Flying School), Mount Farm (1940-43 RAF, 43-45 USAAF, 45-46 RAF), Port Meadow (1917-19 RFC/RAF), Stanton Harcourt (1940-45 RAF), Upper Heyford (1917-20 RFC/RAF, 28-50 RAF, 50-93 USAF), Weston-on-the-Green (1918-20 RFC/RAF, 1939-present RAF), Witney (1918-19 RFC/RAF 1930s civil, 39-45 de Havilland).

Newspaper reports on wartime crashes are rare but those in peacetime may carry an account in the local press. Each entry gives the aircraft's serial number, its type, its unit and that unit's home airfield (with the county if not in the area covered) and the number of fatal casualties if known; it should be remembered that a great many young airmen died in these crashes (signified [where known] by a number followed by 'k' after the appropriate entry), often in horrific circumstances and also, occasionally, civilians on the ground (shown as '+' after the aircrew deaths). Civilian aircraft have their registration, type and location of crash given. Locations in the text show the counties in which the crash was located at the time; those in the index show the present day authorities

SOURCES

This list is compiled from the information given in many books published by Air-Britain Historians Ltd, the series 'UK Crash Sites' in A-B's 'Aeromilitaria' and the volumes of 'Bomber Command Losses' by W. R. Chorley, and 'Coastal Command Losses', published by Midland Books. Two web-sites also proved very useful for the American WW2 crashes - accident-report.com and www.aviationarchaeology.com.

APPENDICES

These can be found at the end of the list and consist of an aircraft type index, a geographical location index showing the current local authorities in whose areas the crash took place, and a list of the abbreviations used.

WORLD WAR 1

The crashes listed under World War One are nowhere near comprehensive, either in number or in their exact locations which were often not recorded; however, as can be seen in later periods, most crashes took place at or near aerodromes, during the demanding tasks of take-off and landing. Thus, many of the below did happen at their bases. During WW1 most of the region's aerodromes were involved in training pilots and in defence against air attacks by aeroplanes and airships.

BETWEEN THE WARS

There was a massive rundown of the RAF during 1919-20. The aircraft were becoming more reliable and the pace of training slackened so that the number of accidents reduced and there were fewer casualties in any case, due to the introduction of parachutes. The RAF began to increase in size significantly during the 1930s and operational types, as opposed to those used for training, began to arrive at newly-opened airfields. These more sophisticated and powerful aircraft, equipped with such novelties as flaps, retractable undercarriages and enclosed cockpits (not liked initially!), increased the number of accidents as pilots converted from the elderly biplanes. Because France was the only country considered to be a potential threat the RAF's bomber airfields were mainly concentrated in this region. In addition to the military crashes civilian-owned aircraft and aerodromes began to appear from the early 1920s on, contributing to the number.

World War II in the area

Germany had replaced France as the threat during the late 1930s and the bomber squadrons moved to eastern England leaving the region as a quiet area concentrating on flying training, particularly of bomber crews. The Battle of Britain was fought largely south of London although Northolt was an important fighter station. When WW2 broke out in September 1939 all civilian aircraft were grounded or impressed for use by the RAF and FAA. As the war continued so did the training of bomber crews, becoming increasingly important as losses mounted and in fact all aspects of training from Elementary Flying Training Schools to the Operational Training Units took place right through the war. A few operational airfields began to appear, notably for reconnaissance and transport duties, some operated by the USAAF. It is unimaginable that the scale of accidents and fatalities seen in the area during WW2 will ever be repeated, a fact for which we must all be grateful; they were largely due to pilot error as these young men were flying in bad weather, at night in pitch black conditions (due to the 'black-out') and in the case of the OTU's ,at least during the first three years of the war, in old worn-out aircraft which had been replaced by new aircraft in the operational squadrons. Many of the young men killed saw no operational flying but their contribution must not be forgotten and sometimes, when they crashed, civilians were also killed, shown by a plus sign and a number after the number of aircrew killed (where known). USAAF reports do not specify the number of aircrew killed in each crash, only whether it was a crash which caused fatalities.

THE COLD WAR.

The RAF now decreased significantly and nearly all the military airfields in the region had by now closed though several were used by civilian clubs and owners. However the USSR was now seen as a new threat to the UK and the USA and it was this that brought the USAF Strategic Air Command to several, greatly developed WW 2 bases during the 50s. Even so the number of aircraft and thus accidents were greatly reduced as aircraft and their engines were becoming more and more reliable, training periods were extended, much improved radio, radar, other navigation aids and greatly improved air traffic control reduced the dangers of night flying and bad weather, and ejector seats meant a much better chance of survival if a crash occurred. The reduced accident rate was such that just one crash became a national media item by the 1970s.
