EXTRACTS FROM PRO FILE AIR29/472 (OAMCU)

To speed up the delivery of American-built aircraft to the U.K., in the Autumn of 1940, it was decided to attempt to fly these aircraft across the North Atlantic, from (Gander) Newfoundland to (Aldergrove) Northern Ireland. The Atlantic Ferry Organisation (ATFERO) was formed in July 1940, with HQ in Montreal (later Dorval) and a ground organisation was to provide Met and Radio services to these flights.

An Overseas Air Movement Control Unit (OAMCU) was set up at the Regional Control Centre, Gloucester on September 9, 1940 to provide these services. The site was chosen as it was near to the Air Ministry long-range W/T Station at Birdlip. The Unit was to control the non-operational lights operating outside of UK airspace, including the then small number of trans-Atlantic aircraft from North America. The officer i/c was Group Captain G H Harrison, OBE, DFC.

The OAMCU was to control;

- i) Delivery flights of American-built aircraft to the RAF.
- ii) Re-equip & reinforce flights to RAF Overseas Commands.
- iii) RAF mail service to the Middle East, via Malta.
- iv) All long-distance flights by civil aircraft, except regular air-mail services to Northern Ireland, Eire and trans-Atlantic mail, between Botwood and Foynes.

An operations room for the OAMCU was completed in the Air Ministry building at Eastern Avenue, Barnwood, Gloucester. Met forecasting, cypher and teleprinter communications rooms were adjacent. Additional GPO speech and teleprinter lines to Birdlip, 9 & 10 Group Fighter Command Control Centres were added.

The W/T and D/F station at Birdlip was equipped with;

- four, R.1084 Receivers and aerial systems,
- two, SWB.8B transmitters, keyed by landline and shared with 15 Group.

A HF D/F station at Butser provided bearings for the Station.

The OAMCU had close links with the Ministry of Aircraft Production, but was administered by Maintenance Command. On arrival, aircraft were delivered to No.41 Group, Maintenance Command by the ATA for modification before delivery, to Home and Overseas Commands.

On October 7, 1940, F/O Bulstrode, who had served as a civil control officer, was posted into the OAMCU as the first Oceanic Controller.

A detachment of the OAMCU, the Overseas Air Delivery Flight (OADF), was formed at the same time at "D Site", RAF Kemble.

The Trans-Atlantic Safety Services Organisation (TASSO), was responsible, from 1937 until 1946, for the control of the civil trans-Atlantic flying-boat services and for services to Lisbon and West Africa, operating through Foynes on the West Coast of Ireland.

Between October 1940 and October 1941, the OAMCU controlled 1,518 trans-Atlantic and UK-Gibraltar-Middle East flights.

Aug 15 No.44 Group was formed within RAF Ferry Command. They absorbed the OAMCU and were responsible to Ferry Command for all trans-Atlantic flights and W/T control of aircraft UK-Canada-Gander & Bermuda.

OC No.44 Group was Group Capt. E J Kingston-McCloughry, DSO,DFC. Senior Controller was Wing Cdr. G.J.H. Jeffs. Assistant Senior Controller was Sqdn.Ldr. R.F. Bulstrode.

Aug 15 On this day too, the Trans-Atlantic Air Control (TAC) Centre was formed at Prestwick, Scotland, located in the Air Defence HQ at Powbank Mill. At first responsible only for Local Area control, TAC moved to Redbrae House on October 21 and on November 6, a Regional Control Centre was opened there. Later that day, at 1500 hours, TAC assumed Master Control of all North Atlantic, Bermuda, Iceland and Russian flights, North of 5230N and East of 30W.

Flights from Southern England across the Bay of Biscay to Gibraltar, Malta and the Middle East and later North Africa, were controlled by 44 Group at the Overseas Air Control (OAC) Centre at Gloucester.

(159 RAF deliveries, 432 Transport, 592 USAAF, 14 RCAF)

From May 1, 1944, the format of the Record contained in the 44 Group Appendix, (PRO file AIR25/639), changes to a limited listing of trans-Atlantic aircraft movements into and out of the UK. From earlier entries, the departure/destination "UK", may well have been Prestwick.

From May 18, the four-engined, PB2Y Coronado flying-boats added passenger and cargo capacity across the North Atlantic. The PB2Y-3R were flown by Pan American crews for the US Navy and the PB2Y-3B by RAF crews of No.231 Squadron. Entries from AIR25/639 do not note the operator of the Coronado, but scrutiny of the "SAL Largs Log", via Tom MacFayden, notes the arrival/departure of the RAF Coronado service. Details of the US Navy flights are shown in "The Foynes and Botwood Logs".

TRANS-ATLANTIC RECEPTION PARTY : AIR.29/473

In November 1940, a Civilian Reception Party (CRP) was formed by Scottish Aviation Ltd., to accept the aircraft delivered from North America and to welcome, feed and accommodate both aircrew and passengers. When the Air Ministry took over the Atlantic Ferry Organisation (ATFERO) from the Ministry of Aircraft Production (MAP) and formed RAF Ferry Command on July 15, 1941, a Trans-Atlantic Reception Party took over the task of looking after the aircraft and service personnel from the civilian organisation. Sqdn.Ldr. J.N Bamford was in Command.

From November 1940, to March 31, 1942, the TRP and their predecessors, handled 533 landplanes as well as 100 flying-boat deliveries. These included;

EASTBOUND PROCEDURES

Trans-Atlantic Air Control (TAC) at Prestwick assumed control of Eastbound flights from Bermuda and Gander, East of 30W until 10W. Flights South of 5230N, via Gibraltar and North Africa were controlled by the Overseas Air Control Centre (OAC) at Gloucester. Thereafter the flight came under the Control of the Regional Control Centre and destination airfield. The OAC Centre at Gloucester was the standby for TAC at Prestwick should it be attacked by enemy aircraft.

The major navigation aid for trans-Atlantic flights was a high-powered M/F omni-directional radio beacon, (the "Loch Erne" beacon) callsign "UU7" on 263 Kcs, screened to the East and sited 6nm West of the West edge of Lough Erne at Derrynacross. The inbound Radio Range station "legs" at Prestwick, Sillioth, and Blackpool (Squire's Gate) were aligned with this beacon. The inbound Radio Range "leg" at Valley was aligned on Belfast Lough. An NDB at each airfield indicated the "overhead" position. Inbound aircraft could receive the Radio Range transmission from overhead the Lough Erne beacon at 12,000 feet or above.

Thirty minutes before their ETA at 10W, inbound aircraft were to identify themselves on the "Renfrew Trio" of M/F D/F stations on 363 kcs or, to the "Plymton Trio" on 363 kcs, if South of 53 North. Renfrew/Plymton would then advise TAC/OAC of the aircraft identity and position fix.

Aircraft were to hold West of the Lough Erne beacon until instructions to proceed were received. TAC or OAC would then pass the following;

Destination,
 Number along Radio Range leg to the airfield beacon,
 Turn to land and
 Altitude to fly (4,000 feet + 1,000 ft intervals)
 Acknowledge.

e.g. "QAB - W/T callsign of Destination - QGP - Number - QFM - Height in feet - QSL". Then "QSY" to Destination radio frequency".

When the aircraft arrived overhead the destination beacon, it was to report; Time over "Cone of Silence", Height, Blind or Visual Approach.

All flights were notified to Gander, Montreal, 44 Group, Air Ministry and the Military Liaison Officer (MLO) at 9 Group Fighter Command. Flights were to be so routed that they did not interfere with Eastbound traffic. A Departure Message was sent to the TAC/OAC and the aircraft remained under Departure/Regional Control until 10W. Flights were handed off to Gander at 30W and an Arrival Message was required. Overdue action was taken after one hour. Aircraft were to report, enemy attack, submarines, surface vessels and gunfire. If the flight forced landed in Eire, then the crew were to destroy all documents and the aircraft. They were then to escape.

More,

TAKEN FROM THE ORB OF OAMCU AIR.29/472 AND TAC AIR.29/473

The "Total" column divides the numbers of aircraft shown by their routing to the left and their service use shown to the right. Not all horizontal totals agree, due to the pressures of War accounting and the discrepancies in the above references.

From October 1940 to March 1943, numbers have been individually totaled from the above records. From April 1943, TAC began the format noted above.

It is again noted, that TASSO controlled the wartime flights from Foynes - Botwood and the Foynes - Lisbon - Azores flights on to North America. The total number of these flights was 3,179.

	(159 RAF deliveries, 432 Transport, 592 USAAF, 14 RCAF)

From May 1, 1944, the format of the Record contained in the 44 Group Appendix, (PRO file AIR25/639), changes to a limited listing of trans-Atlantic aircraft movements into and out of the UK. From earlier entries, the departure/destination "UK", may well have been Prestwick.

From May 18, the four-engined, PB2Y Coronado flying-boats added passenger and cargo capacity across the North Atlantic. The PB2Y-3R were flown by Pan American crews for the US Navy and the PB2Y-3B by RAF crews of No.231 Squadron. Entries from AIR25/639 do not note the operator of the Coronado, but scrutiny of the "SAL Largs Log", via Tom MacFayden, notes the arrival/departure of the RAF Coronado service. Details of the US Navy flights are shown in "The Foynes and Botwood Logs".
