Introduction

The Air-Britain Information Service is a key part of Air-Britain's service to its members. The service, coupled with the AB-IX internet discussion group, allows members to seek answers to their aviation questions from other like-minded aviation people.

A two way flow of information is actively encouraged. Specialists will try to provide answers to questions and to provide guidance on the researching of aviation history. Members are actively encouraged to feed new information both to the Specialists and to the Editors of Air-Britain's magazines so that all may ultimately benefit.

A Note to the Specialists and to Future Specialists

We do invite all Specialists to provide Air-Britain with their email details in order to ensure the most efficient service; we also invite all Specialists and members to become active participants in AB-IX. All members appointed as new Specialists will have to have an email contact address.

If you have an in depth interest and knowledge of a particular subject, as listed or known to you, then why not join the team of Specialists; if you are interested please contact the co-ordinator at the address following the listing. Additions highlighted with a yellow background.
